Dear Dr. Lederberg:

Per our conversation, I am sending with this letter a copy of the Army's report on the exercises at the National Training Center and a paper on the Computerized Moment Stability System. The inventor of the CMSS is a fellow named Steve Drabowski, who I'm sure would be happy to talk with you about it (215-643-5050). I think it makes a good deal of sense, especially in view of its almost trivial cost.

I very much enjoyed our lunch, and I look forward to talking with you again. I hope to pursue the search for "John Boyds" in other fields, and if I can put together a small project on this, I would very much appreciate your advice and guidance.

Sincerely,
